

The Daniel Pearl Berkshire Scholarship

INFORMATION FOR APPLICANTS

The Daniel Pearl Berkshire Scholarship was established in 2003 with major support from The Berkshire Eagle, the North Adams Transcript and friends of Daniel Pearl, to benefit Berkshire-area students who intend to major in journalism or music. The scholarship fund is invested by the Daniel Pearl Foundation of Encino, California and the award program is administered by the Daniel Pearl Berkshire Scholarship Committee.

Daniel Pearl was a reporter for The Wall Street Journal who was kidnapped and killed, at the age of 38, by terrorists in Pakistan early in 2002. He began his career with stints as a reporter at both the Transcript and The Eagle between 1986 and 1990, after graduating from Stanford University. He joined The Wall Street Journal in 1990, and worked in its Atlanta, Washington, London and Paris bureaus. In 2000 he was appointed chief of The Journal's South Asia Bureau in Bombay, India. At the time of his death, Pearl had been seeking an interview with a shadowy Islamic leader to obtain information about terrorist organizations in Pakistan. Those who promised to arrange the interview instead kidnapped and killed him.

While Pearl's career was in journalism, he was a gifted musician, trained as a classical violinist. He also played guitar and mandolin, and while living in the Berkshires he performed in a bluegrass band.

ELIGIBILITY

To be eligible for the 2018 award, you must meet one of the following educational qualifications, and the Berkshire area residence requirement below.

- You will graduate from high school in 2018 and plan to enter your first year of higher education in the fall of 2018, OR:
- You graduated from high school in 2016 or 2017 and deferred college enrollment for one or two years, but plan to enter your first year of college in the fall of 2018, OR:
- You plan to enter college in the fall of 2018 following a period of active military service.

Graduates of any public or private high school may qualify, as long as they meet the following residence requirement: The applicant must have maintained home residence during his or her entire senior year in high school within the circulation and news coverage area of The Berkshire Eagle. That area is defined as, and limited to:

- All towns in Berkshire County, Massachusetts; plus:
- Middlefield, MA
- Canaan, CT
- Pownal, Readsboro and Stamford, VT
- Canaan, New Lebanon, Berlin, Stephentown, NY

Residents of this geographic area who attended a school elsewhere (for example, a private school) also qualify.

AWARDS

The award is competitive, and will be given at the discretion of the committee to a single student who exhibits a strong interest in the pursuit of education and a career either in music or journalism, and has a meritorious record of academic and community achievement while in high school. Applications will be reviewed by the committee with those criteria in mind.

The fund makes an annual award of $1,000. Note: The scholarship award may be subject to revocation if the recipient substantially alters his or her intent to study and pursue a career in journalism or music prior to first-year enrollment.

DEADLINE

All applications must be received by the Committee, or postmarked, by midnight, Saturday, April 22, 2018.

TO APPLY

Complete the attached application form and send it to:

Pearl Scholarship Committee
c/o Martin C. Langeveld
131 Woodland Rd.
Vernon, VT 05354

With the application form, please enclose:

- A certified transcript of high school grades
